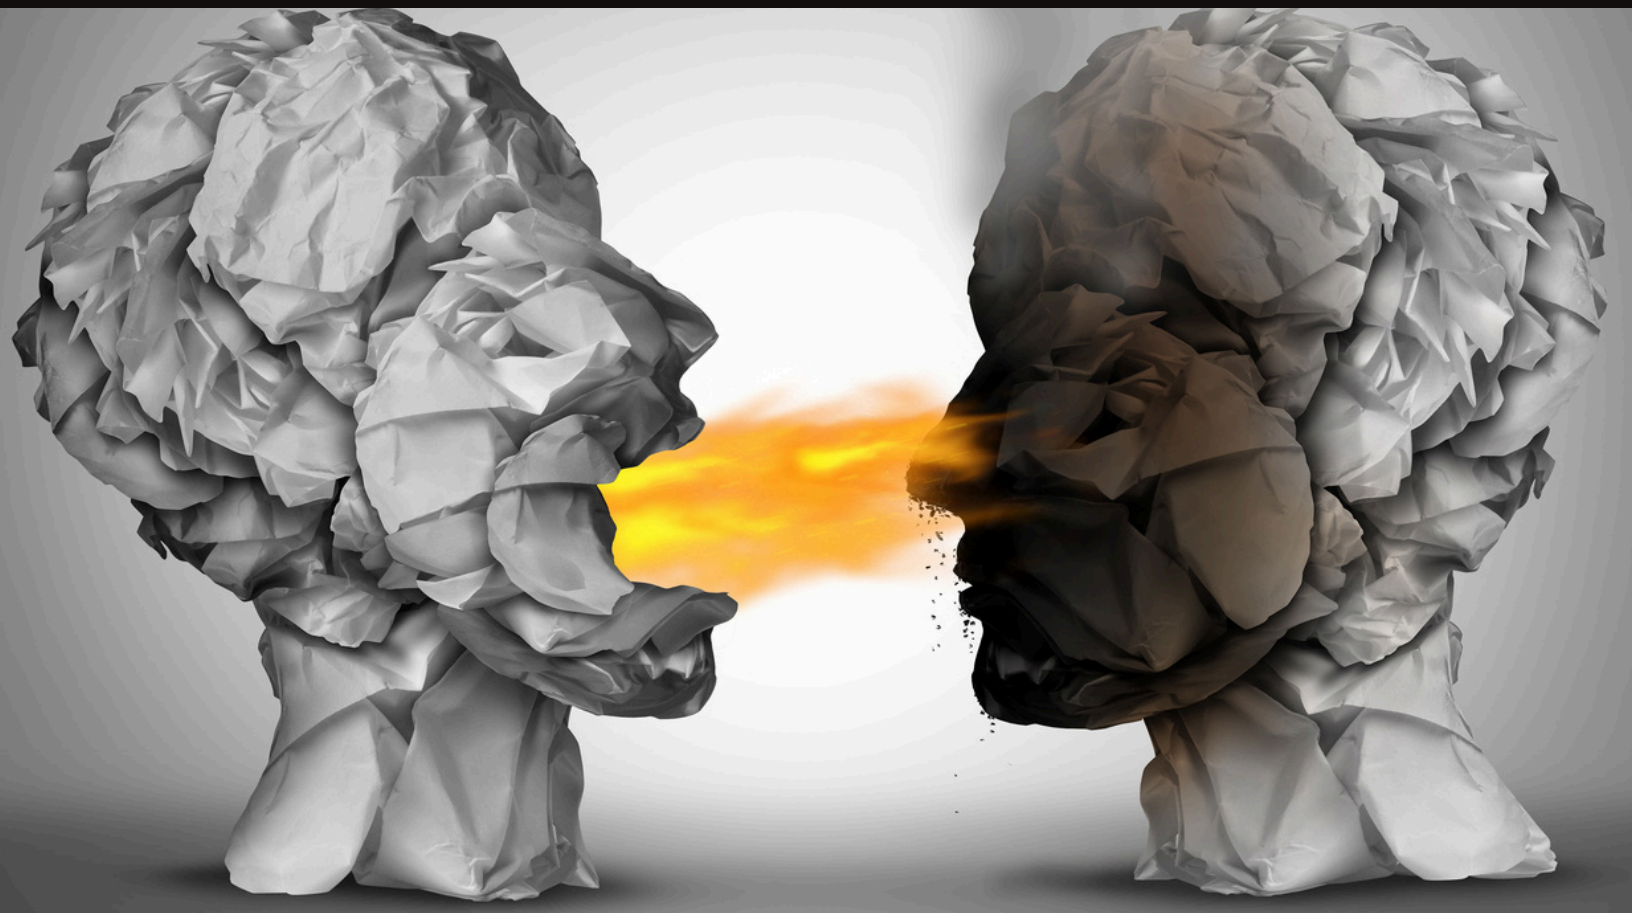
ETHICS ACROSS TRADITIONS

EMORY CENTER FOR ETHICS

At Civility's Edge: Ethics and Intolerance



Tue Nov 17, 2026
3:00-4:30 pm

Center for Ethics, Room 162
1531 Dickey Drive

Tolerance stretches only so far. In which ways are the limits of tolerance fixed and unchangeable? Or do we manufacture those edges when we refuse to accept certain differences—of belief, opinion, practices, peoples? If intolerance is willfully made, which values justify its shape? If intolerance is more fixed and objective, what can/should we do about it? When our professions/guilds/traditions think about intolerance, what—and who—do we think about? In an age of profound compassion and baseless degradation, we must seriously consider our role in fostering—and controlling—intolerance. Join us for a heartfelt conversation about civility's edge.

Michelle Burrell
Executive Director, ACLU GA

Andra Gillespie
Dept of Political Science

Brendan Ozawa-de Silva
Center for Contemplative Science & Compassion-based Ethics

Moderator:
Jonathan K. Crane
Center for Ethics

Free & Open to the Public
For more information & to register: EthicsandIntolerance.eventbrite.com
Questions? Email Alison Kear, akear@emory.edu