EASL Summer Internship Program

The summer internship program provides students with an intensive and structured service learning program, which requires a minimum 270 hours of service and includes classroom instruction that provides students with essential leadership and ethical skills and gives them an opportunity to reflect on their experiences. Throughout their work and the classroom component, students are engaged in an ongoing process of learning about and reflecting on what it means to be an ethical leader and the practices one must cultivate to be such a leader.

Lola Ajibade

Placement Site: New American Pathways, Health and Wellbeing

Year: Rising Junior

School(s): Emory College

Major(s): Human Health, Global Development Minor

Email: lola.ajibade@emory.edu

Pronouns: she/her

My name is Lola Ajibade, and I am a rising Junior majoring in Human Health and Minor in Global Development on the pre-med track. I am very passionate about the social determinates of health and how they impact minorities in the global sphere. I am incredibly excited to working as one of the Health and Wellness Interns at New American Pathways, especially as a daughter to two Nigerian immigrants that struggled when they first moved here. I hope to help create a safe, empowering space for people transitioning to their new life in the United States. In my free time, I love to take dance classes, do arts & crafts, and talk with new people!

Aeiris Asantewa

Placement Site: Emory Office of Sustainability Initiatives (OSI)

Year: Rising Sophomore

School(s): Emory College

Major(s): Environmental Science & Health

Email: amasant@emory.edu

Pronouns: they/them

Hello! My name is Aeiris Asantewa, and I am a rising Sophomore at Emory University majoring in Environmental Science & Health, with plans to pursue graduate studies. I am passionate about the intersection of neurodevelopment, mental health, and community health, exploring how early socioenvironmental experiences shape behavior and wellbeing.

On campus, I foster inclusive spaces through my work with Emory's LGBT Life, EES, and Matriculate. In my free time, I enjoy birding, hiking, and language learning. I'm so grateful to join EASL and OSI this summer to build change!

Nabiah Bhatti

Placement Site: International Rescue Committee, Health and Wellness
Year: Rising Senior
School(s): Emory College
Major(s): Biology and Human Health
Email: nabiah.bhatti@emory.edu
Pronouns: she/her

Hi! My name is Nabiah Bhatti, and I am a rising senior majoring in Biology and Human Health with a goal of attending medical school post-graduation. On campus, I'm involved in research investigating the human health impacts of environmental exposures to antibiotic residues. I am very passionate about working with marginalized communities, with a focus on how structural inequities shape access to healthcare. I am excited to support the International Rescue Committee's mission this summer by helping refugee clients navigate healthcare systems and access essential services as a Health and Wellness Intern.

Sage Buchris

Placement Site: New American Pathways,
Education & Youth
Year: Rising Junior
School(s): Emory College
Major(s): Religion and Psychology
Email: sage.buchris@emory.edu
Pronouns: she/her

My name is Sage and I am a Psychology and Religion double major from New York, New York. I am thrilled to work with the New American Pathways Center as their Education & Youth intern! During the school year, you can find me taking photos of nature and for the Emory Wheel, writing educational information for Emory Heartstart's education committee, or breakdancing! In my free time I enjoy painting, meditation, and reading.

Sophia Chenault

Placement Site: Wholesome Wave Georgia

Year: First

School(s): Candler School of Theology

Program: Master of Theological Studies

Email: schenau@emory.edu

Pronouns: she/her

As a seminary student at Candler School of Theology, I am continually shaped by the theological imperative of kenosis as it grounds my commitment to community care. My academic work focuses on rhetoric, particularly the language of white Christian nationalism and its role in sustaining division. During my first year as an EASL intern, I collaborated with the Atlanta arts community to highlight intersections of creativity and social justice. In my second year with Wholesome Wave, I will be focusing on food justice, building relationships with local farmers and partners, practicing a kenotic ethic of attention, listening, and mutual care.

Kelsey Coley

Placement Site: International Rescue Committee, Employment Services

Year: Rising Sophomore

School(s): Emory College

Major(s): Human Biology and Anthropology

Email: kelsey.coley@emory.edu

Pronouns: she/her

My name is Kelsey Coley, and I am a first-year, first-generation student on the pre-med track at Emory University. I am passionate about addressing health disparities within underrepresented communities, or more specifically by expanding access to quality healthcare and equitable medical education. I am proud to serve this summer as an Employment Services Intern with the International Rescue Committee (IRC).

From a young age, my parents instilled in me the importance of occupational and educational stability and independence. This has sparked my passion working with the IRC in helping others build these same foundations within their own communities.

In addition to my academic interests, I am a student-athlete on the track and field team, I enjoy reading, and I love exploring different cultures through food!

Juliana de Azevedo Castro Cesar

Placement Site: New American Pathways,
Immigration

Year: Third

School(s): Laney Graduate School

Program: Philosophy PhD

Email: jdeazev@emory.edu

Pronouns: she/her

My name is Juliana. I hold a PhD in Political Science from the University of São Paulo, and I am currently pursuing a PhD in Philosophy at Emory University. My research focuses on critical social theory, specifically examining contemporary authoritarianism, psychoanalysis, and feminism. Outside of the classroom, I am actively involved in sustainability initiatives on campus as President of the Emory Spoke's Council, the graduate bike club, where I work to promote alternative and more sustainable modes of transportation.

Abigail Duke

Placement Site: International Rescue
Committee, Adult Education

Year: Rising Senior

School(s): Emory College

Major(s): English and Creative Writing

Email: abigail.duke@emory.edu

Pronouns: she/her

Hello! My name is Abigail Duke, and I am a rising senior studying English & Creative Writing. This summer, I will be joining the IRC as an Adult Education Intern. I am passionate about literacy and look forward to learning about the organization's work as well as engaging with the greater Atlanta community. On campus, you can find me in the WMRE studio, deep in a knitting project, or at the Rose Library.

Sara Forsido

Placement Site: International Rescue Committee, Grant Compliance & Data

Year(s): Graduated May 2026

School(s): Rollins School of Public Health

Program(s): Environmental Health

Email: sara.forsido@emory.edu

Pronouns: she/her

Hi! My name is Sara, and I am a recent MPH graduate of Emory's Rollins School of Public Health. With a background in environmental health, I am very excited to apply my academic, research, and work experiences in this Grant Compliance & Data Intern role. I look forward to this learning opportunity and to contributing to the IRC's mission of support and empowerment, which aligns with my ultimate goal of promoting health and well-being among diverse and underserved communities!

Ishmam Hossain

Placement Site: New American Pathways, Health and Wellbeing

Year(s): 4+1

School(s): Laney Graduate School

Program(s): Master of Arts in Bioethics

Email: mhoss34@emory.edu

Pronouns: he/him

Hi! I am Ishmam Hossain, a pre-med student studying Bioethics as a graduate student at the Laney Graduate School. I have recently graduated from Emory College of Arts and Sciences with a degree in Neuroscience and Behavioral Biology. I am also a part of two different research labs studying Down Syndrome and Neurodegenerative conditions. I have previously served as the president of the Bengali Association in Emory and volunteered across the rural south with Remote Area Medical. My hobbies and interests include reading, art, philosophy, playing the guitar, soccer, and weightlifting. I am very grateful and excited to be a part of New American Pathways as a Health and Wellness Intern!

Tai Jackson

Placement Site: Alliance Theatre
Year: Rising Senior
School(s): Emory College
Major(s): Theater Studies, Film & Media Studies
Email: tai.jackson@emory.edu
Pronouns: he/him

Hi, my name is Tai Jackson and I am a rising senior double majoring in Theater Studies and Film & Media Studies at Emory. On campus, I serve as Marketing Manager for the student theater organization Dooley's Players, a student recruiter for the Theater Studies Department, a member of Emory's Concert Choir, and a performer in both student productions and Theater Emory mainstage shows. Outside of theater, I serve as a Facilities and Conferences Manager for Emory Conference Services, where I have gained valuable experience in team leadership and operational management. I am also a passionate puppeteer, aspiring director, and lover of new theatrical works development. I am so excited to be joining the amazing creative team at the Alliance Theatre this summer!

Fiona Kuo

Placement Site: Georgia Laws of Life
Year: Rising Junior
School(s): Emory College
Major(s): Sociology
Email: fiona.kuo@emory.edu
Pronouns: she/her

Hi! My name is Fiona Kuo and I am a recent Oxford graduate planning on majoring in sociology and minoring in data science at the Atlanta Campus. This summer, I am excited to work with Georgia Laws of Life as a Marketing Intern because it lies at the intersection of my interests in youth advocacy, writing, and marketing.

At Oxford, I was an Oxford Service Leader, Writing Tutor, and Marketing Intern, and was privileged to work at Harvard Summer School as a Program Assistant last summer through the Tarbuton Leadership Fellowship. I hope to utilize these transformative experiences in my role this summer and learn more about nonprofit management and marketing. In my free time, I enjoy playing violin (or viola), journaling, making cafe drinks, baking, and crafting. I am honored to be part of the Servant Leadership Summer program cohort this summer!

Shunji Lewandowski

Placement Site: International Rescue Committee,
Grant Compliance & Data

Year(s): Rising Senior

School(s): Emory College

Major(s): Economics and Human Health

Email: shunji.lewandowski@emory.edu

Pronouns: he/him

My name is Shunji, and I am a rising senior majoring in Economics and Human Health. My passion for mission-driven work started during a summer coaching low-income clients on financial planning at the Connecticut Association for Human Services, where I realized I wanted to use data and analytical skills to serve people rather than just profit.

At Emory, I currently am a member of the Social Empathy Lab, researching how empathy from various perspectives, including psychological, social, and embodied approaches impact our lived experiences. I also am an incoming student in the Laney Graduate School's 4+1 Economics program. Outside of academics, I love swimming, photography, and finding the best restaurant spots in Atlanta!

Shromona Malhotra

Year: Rising Junior

School(s): Emory College

Major(s): Anthropology & Human Biology

Email: shromona.malhotra@emory.edu

Pronouns: she/her

Hi! My name is Shromona Malhotra, and I'm a rising junior majoring in Anthropology and Human Biology with a minor in Music on the pre-med track. I am incredibly excited to be working with the International Rescue Committee this summer as a Health & Wellness Intern, especially being from a family of immigrants. Besides my passion for medical equity and reducing disparities in patient care, I am an avid musician – I am a vocalist of the Oxford Soul Collective, the music director of Oxappella, and the vocalist-guitarist for my band, the IRS (no relation to the federal agency)! This summer, I'm excited to help advocate for patients and experience a new side of patient care that can leave a lasting impact on the community.

Amani Malickel

Placement Site: The Bakery
Year: Rising Senior
School(s): Emory College
Major(s): Human Health and Philosophy,
Politics, & Law
Email: amani.malickel@emory.edu
Pronouns: she/her

Hello! My name is Amani, and I am a rising senior double majoring in Human Health and Philosophy, Politics, and Law. I am interested in how law shapes the role of the arts in supporting individual and community wellbeing. At Emory, I'm a Peer Health Educator at the Center for Student Wellbeing, a research assistant at the HEAT Lab, and I plan workshops for Emory Art Club. I'm excited for the opportunity to combine my interests and learn more about non-profit work, showcase local artists, and help organize exhibitions at The Bakery Atlanta. In my free time, I love reading, making art, and trying new restaurants around Atlanta.

Elsa Mathew-Lewis

Placement Site: Atlanta Policing Alternatives and Diversion (PAD) Initiative
Year: Rising Junior
School(s): Emory College
Major(s): International Studies, Data Science Minor
Email: elsa.mathew-lewis@emory.edu
Pronouns: she/her

Hi! My name is Elsa Mathew-Lewis, and I am a rising junior majoring in International Studies and minoring in Data Science on the pre-law track. I am passionate about social justice and hope to pursue a career at the intersection of international law and public policy. I am so excited to be working with PAD this summer to help advance their mission of providing connection to care as an alternative to police involvement, arrest, and incarceration. Some of my on-campus involvements include being the Co-President of Emory Miracle, Vice President of Emory Justice and Law Initiative, and a legislator in College Council. In my free time I love to read, go on walks, and try out new restaurants.

Anthony Mensah

Placement Site: International Rescue Committee, Supply Chain

Year: First year

School(s): Laney Graduate School

Program(s): Religion

Email: anthony.mensah@emory.edu

Pronouns: he/him

A first-year PhD student at Laney Graduate School, Emory University, I am researching African Indigenous Medicine and its complementarity with orthodox medical care. I have always believed that indigenous healthcare approaches play an important role in the health and well-being of indigenous peoples and communities. I am part of the Ethics and Servant Leadership programme cohort for the 2025/2026 academic year, and it has been an interesting experience. I am participating in the EASL Summer Internship programme with the International Rescue Committee (IRC) in Atlanta as a Supply Chain Intern. I hope to make a significant contribution to the IRC's mission of helping individuals with shattered lives and livelihoods to survive, recover, and regain control of their future by delivering dedicated service to the organisation, paying attention to the smallest details, and leveraging my teaching skills and competencies to foster hope among those impacted by conflict and disaster. Such is my personal commitment to humanity.

Tori Mooney

Placement Site: Georgia Public Broadcasting

Year: Rising Junior

School(s): Emory College

Major(s): Political Science and Music

Email: vkmoone@emory.edu

Pronouns: she/her

My name is Tori Mooney, and I am a rising junior at Emory College of Arts and Sciences from Chicago, IL. I am double majoring in Political Science and Music with a concentration in Vocal Performance. At Emory, I am involved with The Emory Wheel, Concert Choir, and The Gathering A Cappella. I am passionate about government, non-profit leadership, and journalism and communications, and I look forward to supporting initiatives that foster engagement and celebrate Georgia's diverse communities. In my free time, I enjoy making playlists, staying active, and trying new restaurants with friends and family.

Minh Nguyen

Year: Rising Junior

School(s): Emory College

Major(s): Environmental Science
(Health track)

Email: ngoc.nguyen2@emory.edu

Pronouns: she/her

Hi! My name is Minh, and I am a rising junior from Ha Noi, Viet Nam studying Environmental Science major (Health track) with a minor in Nutrition Science. My involvement in healthcare advocacy and public health research has shown me firsthand how structural and environmental inequities function as critical social determinants of health. This understanding has motivated me to pursue health equity work through community-based interventions and culturally responsive care. I am excited to join the Health & Wellness team at the International Rescue Committee, where I hope to support refugee communities while continuing to learn from their resilience and lived experiences.

Marleigh O'Hanlan

Placement Site: High Museum of Art

Year: Rising Senior

School(s): Emory College

Major(s): Biology; Ethics minor

Email: morgan.schatmeyer@emory.edu

Pronouns: she/her

Hello! My name is Marleigh O'Hanlan, and I'm a rising senior studying Biology and Ethics. I'm passionate about service, disability ethics, and helping to make art an inclusive and participatory experience for all individuals. This summer, I am serving as an accessibility intern at the High Museum of Art, where I hope to use equitable design and thoughtful programming to support the needs of all visitors. I also love exploring Atlanta and am excited to spend the summer here!

Sophie Pollack-Milgate

Placement Site: New American Pathways,
Research & Evaluation

Year: Second Year

School(s): Rollins School of Public Health
& Laney Graduate School

Program(s): Master of Public Health &
Master of Arts in Bioethics

Email: spolla4@emory.edu

Pronouns: she/her

After graduating from Brown University with my BA in Contemplative Studies, I worked as a Research Assistant. Now, I am pursuing master's degrees in Public Health (BSHES) and Bioethics, with the goal of promoting ethics in how we define and treat mental illness. Outside of work, I enjoy reading, writing, and walking around looking at flowers.

Kaleigh Tolliver

Placement Site: Philanthropy Southeast

Year: Rising Senior

School(s): Emory College

Major(s): Philosophy, Politics, & Law and Psychology

Email: kaleigh.tolliver@emory.edu

Pronouns: she/her

Hello, I am Kaleigh Tolliver, a rising senior at Emory College of Arts and Sciences. I am a double major studying PPL (philosophy, politics, and law) and psychology. I grew up in Man, West Virginia raised by my grandparents. In my free time, I enjoy reading many different genres of books. I am passionate about civil rights and mental health advocacy, both of which I hope to incorporate into a future career.

I have elected to join the EASL Summer Program because I value community involvement and diverse perspectives. I have found fulfillment in my past two years with the EASL Forum and want to make a greater impact on the Atlanta community. This summer, I am interning with Philanthropy Southeast where I will be assisting with events, database support, and monitoring public policy in order to help southern philanthropists connect and learn together.

Andreea Trifas

Placement Site: Concrete Jungle
Year: Rising Junior
School(s): Emory College
Major(s): Political Science and Environmental Science
Email: atrifas@emory.edu
Pronouns: she/her

My name is Andreea Trifas, and I am a rising Junior studying Political Science and Environmental Science on the pre-law track. Growing up in Appalachian and Coastal Alabama has shaped my passion for furthering equitable environmental progress. This is why I am eager to join Concrete Jungle in advancing food justice this summer. On campus, I am involved in the ClimTransform Lab, Emory Journal of Law and Society, and Emory Climate Analysis & Solutions Team. Outside of this, I enjoy playing tennis, creating art, and exploring Atlanta's many coffee shops. In the future, I hope to work in the public interest law or environmental justice space, advocating for natural spaces and underserved communities.

Sophie Yu

Placement Site: New American Pathways, Immigration
Year: Rising Junior
School(s): Emory College
Major(s): Political Science and Psychology
Email: sophie.yu@emory.edu
Pronouns: she/her

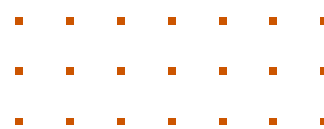

Hello! My name is Sophie, and I'm from Shanghai, China. I'm currently on a pre-law track with a focus on public policy and human behavior. On campus, I'm involved in Ben Pius Mock Trial, Kesem at Atlanta, the Young Democrats of Emory, and undergraduate research. In my spare time, I enjoy napping, reading, and taking photos of the squirrels on campus.

Boozer-Noether Internships

The Jack Boozer Fund and the Hermann and Janet Noether Fund provide support for Emory College students undertaking internships and service-learning programs in social ethics and community service both in the United States and internationally. The purpose of the funds is to enable Emory University to pursue internships that combine study and an active working engagement with situations and problems that require a deep understanding and practice of social ethics and community service.

Ava Havidic

Placement Site: Posmrtna Pripomoć

Year: Rising Junior

School(s): Emory College

Major(s): International Studies

Email: ava.havidic@emory.edu

About Posmrtna Pripomoć

Posmrtna Pripomoć is an historic organization based in Zagreb, Croatia, with a 95-year legacy of community service.

About Ava

Ava Havidic is a changemaker in international relations and global business, where she aims to advance youth policy in multiple disciplines. She has founded her own organization, SEAS Connections, and has worked to establish the inaugural Croatian Youth Council, both rooted in her experience growing up onboard cruise ships. Ava is a developer of policy on quality education, good health, and life below water, based on her areas of expertise on the 17 Sustainable Development Goals. She has served as the first National Student Board Member Association (NSBMA) President representing millions of students in all fifty states and Student Advisor for Broward County Public Schools, the 6th largest school district in the nation, voicing 251,000+ students daily. She has been a speaker at the Local Conference of Youth, U.S. Embassy in Croatia, Education Week's Leadership Symposium, Afterschool for All Challenge, and United to Beat Malaria Leadership Summit, to just name a few. As a Coca-Cola Scholar and Elks National Foundation Scholar, she has been recognized for her work in the Associated Press, Yahoo, and The Washington Post, and more (<https://linktr.ee/avahavidic>). Ava is a leading voice in public service, government, and entrepreneurship, driving impactful change at the intersection of policy, innovation, and youth leadership.

In this role, I will contribute to the Marketing and Communications department by drafting content for various media platforms, supporting weekly marketing campaigns, conducting research on environmentally sustainable service options, participating in site visits, and assisting in community workshops, with a particular focus on initiatives within the Zagreb region. This opportunity is part of a special partnership connected to my role as a Global Goals Ambassador with the United Nations Association of the USA, a nationwide grassroots movement of over 20,000 members across 200+ chapters dedicated to advancing the mission and values of the United Nations through education, advocacy, and community engagement. In alignment with my focus on Sustainable Development Goal 14 (Life Below Water), this internship will allow me to apply environmental communication strategies to promote sustainability and awareness, bridging my work in the United States with international impact in Europe.

Nashra Kahn

Placement Site: Samaanta Organization
Year: Rising Junior
School(s): Emory College
Major(s): Interdisciplinary Studies
Email: nashra.khan@emory.edu

About Samaanta Organization

Samaanta Foundation is a Nepal-based not-for-profit organization that promotes equality and empowerment by providing quality higher education and skills development opportunities to meritorious public school graduates from poor socio-economic backgrounds who are at risk of dropping out.

About Nashra

My name is Nashra Khan, and I am a second-year Interdisciplinary Studies major at Emory University. I am deeply interested in the intersection of medicine, education, and public policy, particularly in how these fields can work together to improve outcomes for underserved populations.

I am passionate about engaging with communities in ways that are both impactful and reciprocal, where I can contribute meaningfully while also gaining insight into the systemic challenges that shape health and access to care. My goal is to better understand and address disparities by working at the intersection of education, policy, and access to resources in an equitable way.

As an intern, I will play an important role in supporting Samaanta's core activities and contributing to the academic and personal development of Fellows. Your responsibilities will include providing academic support and mentorship to Fellows, particularly in English, Science, and Math; supporting Fellows in study skills, career planning, CV and cover letter development, and interview preparation; assisting the Program Officer in managing regular programs and activities, including Fellow selection and support for Fellows' academic and personal well-being.

2026 EASL Placement Sites

Alliance Theatre

Website: www.alliancetheatre.org

Alliance Theatre is the leading producing theater in the Southeast, offering 12 world class productions each season. Four are produced on our brand new Coca Cola Stage, four are produced in the underground Hertz, and four are part of our family series which includes productions for ages 0 – 3 years old. We also host the annual Reiser Atlanta Artists Lab competition which provides funding and resources to teams of local Atlanta artists. In addition, we have the Alliance/Kendeda National Graduate Playwriting Competition which produces one new play submitted by a MFA playwriting recipient a year. Finally, we have a robust education department that provides drama camps and classes for all ages, training for teachers, workshops in communication for corporations, and a host of other programming that supports our mission.

Atlanta Policing Alternatives and Diversion (PAD) Initiative

Website: www.atlanta.adl.org

The Policing Alternatives & Diversion Initiative is an Atlanta-based non-profit organization that provides an alternative to police response and diversion from jail for people experiencing extreme poverty, problematic substance use, or mental health concerns.

The PAD Initiative was born out of the work and vision of Atlantans directly impacted by policing and incarceration and committed to a new approach to community safety and wellness.

The Bakery Atlanta

Website: www.thebakeryatlanta.com/

Our mission is to broaden awareness of, and build community around, progressive ideas in the arts. We envision an Atlanta that supports the emerging, DIY, and underground arts as they grow locally and regionally in the Southeast.

The Bakery Atlanta is a collective of artists, curators, and administrators dedicated to offering alternative models to local creatives and the general public. We host and produce experiences that connect and inspire people through collaboration, experimentation, and play.

Moreover, we support the emerging, DIY arts community through community projects and engagement events, hosting workshops, classes, art exhibitions, and offering a host of digital resources for artists including our artists opportunities page and artist directory. In addition to these offerings, we also coordinate, curate, and install artwork in public and private spaces.

Concrete Jungle

Website: www.concrete-jungle.org

Concrete Jungle was started by a group of friends scavenging for overlooked apple trees in Atlanta. Thus, Concrete Jungle became an organization whose mission is to forage, farm, and support food access across Georgia.

Concrete Jungle provides fresh produce to food-insecure families by distributing excess produce from fruit trees and farms throughout the region; growing food on our farm; and providing nutrition education resources. As of December 2023, Concrete Jungle had distributed over 2 million pounds of fresh, nutritious food.

Concrete Jungle's main programs include its flagship program, Fruit Picks and Adventure Picks, PEEL (Produce Education and Enjoyment Loop), and Produce Buyers Club.

Through PEEL, Concrete Jungle distributes these fruits and vegetables to agencies throughout Atlanta doing the important work of feeding their communities. In 2018, Concrete Jungle began providing educational opportunities at food pantries and soup kitchens to help familiarize clients with local and less common varieties of produce. Through taste tests, recipe demonstrations, and cooking classes the PEEL program ensures that Concrete Jungle makes produce available and accessible for our partners' clients.

The Produce Buyers Club purchases imperfect produce from farms in South Georgia for distribution among hunger relief agencies in the Atlanta area. The program is unique because the produce was picked within a few days of when it is distributed, unlike the food bank or other produce providers who are giving produce that has surpassed its shelf life.

Georgia Laws of Life

Website: <https://georgialawsoflife.org/>

The Georgia Rotary Districts Character Education Program, Inc. (GRCEP) is a nonprofit organization dedicated to promoting character education among Georgia's youth through the Georgia Laws of Life Essay Contest (GLL). This statewide contest invites high school students to reflect on and articulate values such as honesty, perseverance, and compassion through personal essays based on a meaningful quote or "law of life" of their choice.

The Georgia Laws of Life mission is to inspire Georgia high school students to recognize and embrace the power of positive character values. The GLL program fosters self-reflection, ethical decision-making, and character development in students, equipping them with the values essential for personal and professional success.

Georgia Public Broadcasting

Website: www.gpb.org

The mission of Georgia Public Broadcasting (GPB) is to create, produce and distribute high quality programs and services that educate, inform and entertain our audiences and enrich the quality of their lives. In service of this mission, GPB delivers quality Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) and locally produced programming to every county in Georgia via nine public television stations. In addition, GPB is a listener-supported public radio network serving Georgia with NPR news and information along with a variety of music.

Moreover, GPB Education is Georgia's digital media content provider for the classroom, offering locally produced, Georgia-specific content and digital streaming services across all subject areas to teachers and students. The goal of GPB is to remain at the forefront of the digital learning movement by creating, curating, and distributing quality educational programs and services through our state-of-the-art production facility, cutting edge digital media division, and our partnership with PBS LearningMedia. GPB Education also provides training for Georgia's educators and educational institutions.

High Museum of Art

Website: www.high.org

The High Museum of Art is designed to meet audiences at the intersection of culture and community. We invite you to use the museum as a place to find inspiration, discover new ideas, meet old friends, and make new ones. Through our renowned collection of historical and contemporary art, touring special exhibitions, and thoughtful programming, our mission is to make this rich cultural resource available to educate, excite, and expand the hearts and minds of the many people who walk through the doors each day.

The High has ongoing programs for all ages throughout the year. Whether you're a toddler, a teen, or an adult, we've got you covered with art-making classes, lectures, parties, and more. Find out what we have to offer by visiting our website linked above.

International Rescue Committee

Website: www.rescue.org/united-states/atlanta-ga

The International Rescue Committee (IRC) in Atlanta creates opportunities for refugees and immigrants to integrate and thrive in Georgia communities. Since opening in 1979, the IRC's locally funded office in Atlanta has welcomed more than 28,000 refugees from over 65 countries to resettle in communities across the state. A committed staff of more than 100 professionals work together with volunteers to assist families in reuniting and rebuilding their lives in the greater Atlanta area. The IRC in Atlanta offers a broad range of programs including resettlement and case management services, adult education classes, youth programs covering ages 5 to 24, employment assistance, asset building resources, community health response programs, and immigration services, all of which serve more than 4,000 clients each year.

New American Pathways

Website: www.newamericanpathways.org

New American Pathways is a local 501(c)3 nonprofit that helps refugees from the moment of arrival in Georgia through their journey to citizenship. Our specially designed programs provide proven pathways for refugees and other immigrants to realize their full potential and dreams as they build new lives. Our comprehensive model is unique. We begin with resettlement services and offer steady guidance and advocacy for each family as they pursue jobs, education, cultural integration, individual and female empowerment, and whatever each person needs on their pathway to succeed. By matching peoples' unique assets with opportunities in the community, we ensure that each new American we serve can succeed, strengthen the American workforce, and help Georgia thrive.

Office of Sustainability Initiatives at Emory University

Website: www.sustainability.emory.edu

Founded in 2006, the Emory Office of Sustainability Initiatives (OSI) has firmly established the University's place as a sustainability leader in higher education. From the copy room to the operating room, from the classroom to the residence hall, OSI guides efforts to meet the challenges of sustainability across all of Emory University, Oxford College, and Emory Healthcare. Emory OSI carries out this imperative by helping to restore the global ecosystem, fostering healthy living, and reducing the University's impact on the local environment.

Philanthropy Southeast

Website: www.philanthropysoutheast.org/

Philanthropy Southeast (formerly Southeastern Council of Foundations) is the premier philanthropic network for courageous leaders, ideas and resources focused on the American South and U.S. Caribbean territories. We connect our members to experts, innovations and best practices in philanthropy while promoting peer-to-peer learning and leadership development. Our members comprise a diverse network of thinkers, problem solvers and leaders who share their perspectives, ideas and insights in pursuit of a common goal: leveraging the power of effective, meaningful philanthropy to build a region where all people can participate and prosper.

Our members represent more than 300 philanthropic organizations and individuals of all sizes, including but not limited to family and independent foundations, corporate giving programs, community foundations, grantmaking public charities, and philanthropic serving organizations. Our members represent more than 112 billion dollars in assets dedicated to serving charitable interests across the Southeast in such areas as education, health, human services and the environment. We provide resources, professional development and networking opportunities for funders to learn more about best practices in grantmaking and philanthropic practice -- learning about their communities, engaging nonprofits and putting their considerable resources to work to make a better world.

Wholesome Wave Georgia

Website: www.wholesomewavegeorgia.org

Wholesome Wave Georgia believes that all Georgians in need should have access to fresh, healthy, locally-grown food choices. In Georgia, over 1.4 million people are considered food-insecure and receive federal nutrition assistance including SNAP benefits.

The high cost and low accessibility of fresh foods leave these households with limited options to feed their families. Food insecurity is linked to poverty, obesity, and other diet-related illnesses. The effect of food insecurity on America's families is evident: approximately 65% of adults and 34% of children (ages 2 to 19) are overweight or obese.

We work towards our mission through our core programs: Fresh For Less, Food For Health, and SNAP Connection.
