Organization's Mission Statement: Concrete Jungle forages, farms and supports food access across Georgia.

Summary of organization's primary programs and services:

We provide fresh produce to food-insecure families by distributing excess produce from fruit trees and farms throughout the region; growing food on our farm; and providing nutrition education resources. As of December 2023, Concrete Jungle has distributed over 2 million pounds of fresh, nutritious food. Below is a summary of some of CJ's main programs.

Fruit Picks and Adventure Picks	Concrete Jungle got its start through a group of friends scavenging for overlooked apple trees in Atlanta, making fruit picks our flagship program. Volunteer events encourage participants to explore their surroundings and engage with the natural environment around them. These events include urban fruit picks in Atlanta and Athens and larger gleaning events on farms, reclaiming excess produce. All produce harvested is donated to local soup kitchens and food pantries. Through this work, Concrete Jungle educates volunteers on Georgia's horticultural diversity and the hunger and health issues of our homeless and food insecure population.
PEEL (Produce Education and Enjoyment Loop)	Collecting overlooked and underutilized produce is only the first step. Through PEEL, Concrete Jungle distributes these fruits and vegetables to agencies throughout Atlanta doing the important work of feeding their communities. In 2018, Concrete Jungle began providing educational opportunities at food pantries and soup kitchens to help familiarize clients with local and less common varieties of produce. Through taste tests, recipe demonstrations, and cooking classes the PEEL program ensures that Concrete Jungle makes produce available and accessible for our partners' clients.

Produce Buyers Club	The Concrete Jungle Produce Buyers Club purchases imperfect produce from farms in South Georgia for distribution among hunger relief agencies in the Atlanta area. The program is unique because the produce was picked within a few days of when it is distributed, unlike the food bank or other produce providers who are giving produce that has surpassed its shelf life. Since its founding in 2020, Concrete Jungle has purchased and distributed over 600,000 pounds of produce through this program.
