Organization's Mission Statement: Collaboratively engaging and empowering young people to be problem solvers for the planet.

Summary of organization's primary programs and services:

CPF executes its mission both as a grant maker and as a program operator. Over the past 30 years, more than 1.6 million children have directly participated in CPF's programs, which have funded 3,300+ projects, impacting 10.5 million young people in all 50 U.S. states and over 90 countries.

Through its four (4) main operating programs, CPF invests in developing high-quality, solution-based programming that empower youth to become environmental stewards and global environmental changemakers:

- Project Learning Garden \(PLG\) – Encouraging teachers to use school gardens as an onsite learning laboratory and instructional space while: connecting students to food origins; helping kids develop an early palate for fresh fruits and vegetables; and cultivating their interest and affinity for natural systems.
- Project Giving Gardens \(PGG\) - A summer program (May-Sept) that harnesses school summer breaks and the summer growing season to cultivate, plant, and distribute fresh produce from our 300+ Atlanta area school gardens to students and families hit hardest by food insecurity and access fueled by the impacts of systemic inequities, especially racial inequities, and that many Georgians have been suffering under for generations.

- Project Hero – Encouraging students to act on their natural empathy to help species that are endangered, threatened, or in decline in the places where they live.
- Planeteer Alliance – Supporting, connecting, training, and empowering youth to become changemakers for environmental, social, justice, and community-impact issues. What has resulted is a global network of young people who are putting their passion and impatience for change into ACTION for the planet.
